Virtual Campus, Nursing team recognized at technology conference

May 3, 2005 – SIAS has won the inaugural Campus Saskatchewan Award for Collaborative Design and Development. SIAS's Virtual Campus and the Nursing Education Program of Saskatchewan (NEPS) were the joint developers of this innovative nursing course, which focuses on interpersonal relationships.

The award was presented Monday night at the Campus Saskatchewan-sponsored Teaching, Learning and Technology Conference hosted at SIAS's Wascana Campus in Regina. The conference drew 175 delegates, mostly from Saskatchewan's institutions of higher learning and K to 12 education system.

Speaking on behalf of the award-winning team, Denise Nelson, SIAS Virtual Campus course designer, noted that it was "thrilling to see this large and diverse team come together to create such a powerful online learning experience for nursing students." The team's 15 members were not only drawn from different divisions within SIAS, but also from locations across the province.

After announcing the award, Campus Saskatchewan executive director Phillip Cameron said that it was "encouraging to formally recognize the degree of collaboration that is possible within and among institutions of higher learning in Saskatchewan for the betterment of students."

SIAS's Virtual Campus currently offers more than 80 online courses, which draw approximately 1,500 registrations annually. Each year Virtual Campus employees work with colleagues across SIAS to develop additional courses for online delivery, thus expanding access to SIAS programs.

The Nursing Education Program of Saskatchewan (NEPS) is a degree program designed to prepare graduates for professional nursing practice. NEPS is a partnership between SIAS, the University of Saskatchewan and the First Nations University of Canada.

SIAST is Saskatchewan's primary public institution for post-secondary technical education and skills training, recognized nationally and internationally for its expertise and innovation.
